Risk by Gender

Until the 1990’s, teen male suicide attempts and completions were far greater in number than those of females. However, at the present time, there are more female attempts but more male completions. According to the National Association of Suicidology, “For every nine female attempts, there is one completion. For every four male attempts, there is one completion.” The following two graphs are provided for your information.

Risk of Suicide by Gender

Female Risk of Suicide by Grade Level