I'm jumping into kindergarten.
Ready...Get set...GO!
I can't wait to meet my teachers,
and show them what I know.

But I'm kinda scared to go there.
I'm not sure what we will do.
Is it going to be like preschool?
Will the carpet still be blue?

What if I don't like it?
What if I don't know what to wear?
What if I can't answer my teacher's questions?
What if the other kids don't share?

And what if they laugh at my HAIR?

What if?

What if?

What if?

Don't worry, you'll be Ok!

You already have all the skills you need to figure out your way.

I do know how to button and zip,
and I know what it means to rhyme.

I'm getting really good at bouncing a ball,
because I do it all the time.

Yes! And you're learning to count, cut, and trace,
and practicing your letters and colors.

But what's really going to make you a star,
are skills that are different from the others!

You know, the skills in your invisible backpack.
