About NCYI

National Center for Youth Issues provides educational resources, training, and support programs to foster the healthy social, emotional, and physical development of children and youth. Since our founding in 1981, NCYI has established a reputation as one of the country’s leading providers of teaching materials and training for counseling and student-support professionals. NCYI helps meet the immediate needs of students throughout the nation by ensuring those who mentor them are well prepared to respond across the developmental spectrum.

To date, NCYI has placed materials in and provided training to over 40,000 schools in all 50 states. Last year alone, NCYI placed more than 75,000 counseling resources in schools throughout the country. The range of issues addressed has grown substantially, encompassing subjects ranging from bullying and violence prevention, to drug and alcohol abuse, depression, suicide, and anxiety, as well as life-skills development and social-emotional learning. As the role of student support professionals continues to expand, NCYI has broadened the range of topics, offering resources to address such challenges as: Internet safety, overcoming learning differences, childhood obesity, social and emotional learning, self-injury, ADHD, bi-polar and autism spectrum disorders.

Griefosaurus

Helping Kids Name Big Feelings and Heal After Loss

Katie-Rose Fischer-Price

Josie loves dinosaurs, digging for fossils, and playing "Lava Monster" with her dad. But when an accident turns her world upside down, a heavy feeling follows her everywhere — a creature she can't seem to escape.

With Grandpa's gentle guidance, Josie learns her monster's name: Griefosaurus. Together, they discover that grief isn't something to hide or chase away. It's something to understand, listen to, and care for — like a friend who needs a little space and kindness.

Through this tender and hopeful story, Griefosaurus helps kids and families:

- Put words to big feelings like sadness, anger, and confusion
- See that grief changes shape but doesn't have to stay scary
- Understand that healing happens when we stay curious and connected

Perfect for parents, educators, school counselors, and therapists supporting children, this picture book opens doors to meaningful conversations about love, loss, and resilience.

Stronger Together

A Gentle Story About Navigating Change

Ginger Healy

Dash, a sea otter pup, has learned to calm the worry in his belly by wrapping himself in kelp and playing with his favorite smooth, round stone. Then he meets Sammy, a boy who feels lost and alone after finding out some big news. When their worlds collide, Dash and Sammy share a moment that reveals a compelling truth: even when life feels uncertain and scary, holding onto someone — whether it's a hand...or a paw — can make you stronger together. This gentle, heartfelt story gives children and adults a shared language to talk about anxious feelings, navigating changes, and the healing power of connection.

Let's Get Curious: Anxiety Card Deck

Where Questions Lead to Calm

Each of the 40 scenario-based cards presents a relatable moment that may spark anxious feelings, followed by discussion prompts to guide students toward understanding and managing those emotions. On the back of each card, deeper questions invite students to reflect, problem-solve, and discover strategies that help them feel centered and in control. Students practice identifying signs of anxiety, reframing worries, and connecting with others in a safe, structured way.

- Encourages meaningful conversations without pressure or judgment
- Builds emotional vocabulary and coping confidence
- Flexible for individual, small-group, or whole-class use
- Helps transform anxiety from a mystery into something manageable

Let's Get Curious: Emotional Regulation Card Deck

A Scenario-Based Card Deck for Building Awareness, Control, and Coping Skills

This scenario-based card deck helps students build emotional regulation skills by first developing awareness—naming emotions, noticing body signals, and identifying triggers—before exploring thoughtful, supportive responses. Each card presents a relatable real-life scenario followed by a discussion question and three deeper prompts. Cards rotate through three focus areas to support balance and engagement:

- Anger & Frustration – recognizing rising emotions and pausing before reacting
- Sadness & Disappointment – processing loss, change, and unmet expectations
- Mindfulness & Coping Skills – calming the body and choosing helpful responses

Let's Get Curious: Resilience and Self-Belief Card Deck

A Discussion-Based Card Deck for Helping Students Try Hard Things, Learn from Mistakes, and Build Confidence Through Effort

This is a discussion-based card deck designed to help students reflect on their inner voice, build willingness to try hard things, and recognize strengths and values that support growth over time. Each card presents a short, student-centered scenario followed by a discussion question. On the back of the card, three additional questions deepen thinking around self-talk, effort, learning from mistakes, and recognizing personal strengths.

- Encourages self-belief and resilience through discussion
- Helps students reflect on self-talk and internal decision-making
- Normalizes mistakes as part of learning and growth
- Reinforces strengths, values, and effort that support persistence
- Designed for classroom, counseling, and small-group use

The Engagement Connection

Practical Tools for Capturing Attention and Building Connection

Lisa King, ED.S, LPC

Are you looking for practical, research-backed tools to bring engagement and connection back to the students you serve?

Does it feel like you're competing on an uneven playing field? On one side: algorithms, short-form video, gaming platforms, group chats, and devices professionally engineered to steal attention at any cost. On the other: you — showing up every day with a curriculum to deliver and students who need more than content.

Whether you're just starting out or have years of experience behind you, The Engagement Equation gives you the tools to build the kind of engagement and connection that transforms learning.

Written by a veteran school counselor with nearly three decades in education, this practical, research-backed guide bridges the gap between what neuroscience tells us about learning and what it actually takes to reach and engage students today.

Inside you'll find:

- The brain science behind why today's students struggle to focus — and what actually helps
- Low-prep, high-impact strategies you can use tomorrow: hooks, humor, movement, music, storytelling, games, and more
- Relationship-building tools that strengthen trust, deepen connection, and build the kind of community where every student wants to show up
- Family engagement resources — workshops, newsletters, and scripts ready to use

The Engagement Equation is for:

- K–12 educators seeking fresh, low-prep engagement strategies
- School counselors and student success specialists designing lessons and small groups
- Instructional coaches and administrators building connection-focused school culture
- Anyone who wants the “why” and the “how” — backed by research, tested in real classrooms

Resilience By Design

Build Unshakable Students Through Intentional Practice

Dr. John W. Hodge

What if the most powerful thing you could do for student achievement was build a school where every student felt known, challenged, and believed in?

Students do their best when they feel respected, connected, and supported by the adults around them. Building that culture on purpose, across an entire school, is the hard part, and most schools have no concrete, schoolwide plan for it. Resilience by Design is that plan.

Written by Dr. John W. Hodge, this practical, research-grounded resource gives educators in grades 3–12 the RESILIENCE framework: ten core values, one shared language, and a full school year of practice, built to live in every classroom, hallway, and common space.

Inside you will find:

- The evidence for why culture drives outcomes, and a shared language that unites educators, counselors, administrators, and families around one purpose.
- Ten core values that work as a system, not a checklist, each with a child-friendly definition and concrete, school-based practices any adult can use.
- In Plain Sight stories that open every chapter and spark honest dialogue.
- The TERM Rule, a four-part method for moving values off the page and into daily behavior.
- Heart Huddles, where the framework becomes daily practice. Far more than discussion prompts, each one is built around a real scenario students actually face. Chapter One shows them in action. The complete set, a full school year for every grade band (3–5, 6–8, and 9–12), comes as a downloadable resource, all ready to teach.
- “For Students,” and “For Staff” applications in every chapter.
- A full-year pacing guide that fits the time you already have.
- Leadership planning tools teams complete together, with guiding questions, actions, recognition prompts, and reflection space.

Making MTSS Work
Clear Roles, Tiered Behavior Support, and Systems that Stick
Heather Bushelman

Does your school have an MTSS system, or just a lot of meetings about one?

In 15-Minute Focus: Making MTSS Work, Heather Bushelman gives educators, counselors, and administrators the clarity, practical tools, and step-by-step guidance to build a behavioral and social-emotional support system that every staff member can understand, own, and sustain.

When MTSS gets introduced in a school, it rarely comes with a roadmap. Teams get formed, calendars fill up, paperwork multiplies, and somehow the school counselor ends up responsible for all of it. Meanwhile, students who need support keep falling through the cracks. The problem is not dedication. It is that no one is clear on who owns what, what the data is actually telling them, or how to make the pieces work together. This book cuts through the noise and shows you exactly how to build a system that works.

You'll discover:

- How to align PBIS, SEL, Attendance, and Mental Health into one cohesive system instead of four separate initiatives
- The roles of educators, counselors, and administrators at every tier, and why clarity on that changes everything
- How to use data at Tiers 1, 2, and 3 to make confident decisions about student support
- A practical intervention matching process that takes the guesswork out of what to do next
- How to engage families and community partners as true partners in student success
- Actionable tools, templates, downloadable resources, and more!

15-Minute Focus: Making MTSS Work will ask you to look honestly at how your school is currently supporting students, and whether the system you have is actually working for the adults who are supposed to carry it. When roles are clear, data drives decisions, and ownership is shared, the right support reaches every student.

15-Minute Focus: Relationships and Belonging
Why Students Struggle in Isolation but Thrive in Connection
Dr. Amy Baltimore

What does it mean when a student is surrounded by people every moment of the day — yet feels completely alone?

In today's schools, the most at-risk students are often the most likely to be overlooked. They sit in full classrooms, move through crowded hallways, and blend seamlessly into the background — present everywhere, connected nowhere. Their disconnection isn't loud. It doesn't trigger referrals or disrupt instruction. It simply accumulates, quietly reshaping their brains, their behavior, and their sense of who they are.

Packed with neuroscience research, student stories, and immediately applicable strategies, 15-Minute Focus: Relationships and Belonging is rooted in a foundational truth: isolation is not a personality trait — it is a neurological state. And it is preventable when adults know what to look for.

In 15-Minute Focus: Relationships and Belonging, you'll discover:

- why the brain treats disconnection as danger — and belonging as safety
- how to recognize the hidden masks of student isolation before they become crises
- the difference between healthy solitude and harmful disconnection
- practical tools for building schoolwide belonging across every tier of support
- how brief, five-second neural resets can literally change a student's brain
- the SAFE Framework for weaving connection into every daily interaction
- how to repair rupture, restore dignity, and rebuild trust after conflict
- ...and more!

Whether you're a school counselor, educator, administrator, or support staff, 15-Minute Focus: Relationships and Belonging offers the science, the stories, and the strategies to help every student feel seen, safe, and genuinely connected. When belonging becomes the system, not the exception, everything changes.

30-Minute Groups: Social Drama and Friendship Skills

Understanding Friendship Dynamics, Encouraging Empathy, and Fostering Positive Connections

Amie Dean

Are you looking for an engaging, low-prep resource to help students manage social drama and develop real friendship skills?

Social drama, friendship conflicts, and digital misunderstandings are among the most disruptive challenges students face today — and the skills to navigate them don't always come naturally.

The 30-Minute Groups: Social Drama and Friendship Skills workbook gives school counselors and educators a complete, ready-to-use curriculum to help students in grades 2-9 recognize drama before it escalates, build healthier friendships, and develop the confidence to handle peer conflict with maturity and respect.

Inside, you'll find:

- Ten Complete Lessons with ASCA® standards
- Comprehensive Action Plan
- Permission and Completion Letters to send to caregivers
- Attendance Logs
- Pre- and Post-Assessments for program effectiveness
- Results Report to share with interested parties

Topics include recognizing the traits of a true friend, identifying what drives social drama, managing emotions and self-control, using respectful communication to reduce conflict, recognizing healthy vs. unhealthy friendship patterns, practicing empathy, navigating digital drama, building self-worth and confidence, fostering positive connections, and setting limits while staying kind. The lessons and activities in this thoughtfully crafted resource are designed to help students understand what fuels social drama, develop skills to de-escalate conflict, and make intentional choices about the friendships they build and protect.

A Bad Case of Tattle Tongue

Julia Cook

No one likes "Josh the Tattler" because he tattles too much. One night he wakes up to find his tongue is long, yellow, and covered in purple spots! A Bad Case of Tattle Tongue gives a humorous, cleverly creative way to address the time-consuming tattling-related issues that often sap classroom energy and thwart teaching opportunities.

Lying Up a STORM

Julia Cook

"Each time you tell a lie, another cloud starts to form, and before you can stop it from happening, your insides start to storm." Whenever Levi doesn't like the truth, he kinda makes up stuff to say. This is a great resource to help children understand not only the consequences of telling a lie, but also how one lie can often lead to telling several more.
